NO. 58.

RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1881.

The Calaveras Grove.

The famous big trees of California, 350 to 400 feet high and proportionately thick, are on public land, subject to entry at $1 25 an acre, and may be bought up and destroyed by whoever wishes to make such use of them. The bark has already been pealed from the butt of one for a showman, who sets it up at fairs as an exhibition, and another has been cut down in order to make a dancing platform of the stump.

When a Texas couple stood up to be married, the minister saw the handle of a pistol protruding from the bridegroom's pocket and auggested that, out of respect to the solemn ceremony, it be laid aside. The advice was heeded. Then the bride demurely drew a dagger from her boson tossed it beside the other weapon

What Atled Him.

A bulldog walked into a colored church in Memphis during services, marched quietly up the main aisle, ascended the pulpit, caught hold of the minister and dragged him down stairs. There was nothing to account for the dog's behavior, unless it was that the minister was a visitor.

A Bold, Bad Preacher.

A Chicago clergyman knocked down the thief who was trying to steal his satchel, and the question of whether the blow was justifiable in a preacher of christianity may come before the Presbytery. He says he would do it again.

The Latest Style.

The Courier-Journal says the Louis-ville ladies trim their bonnets on the congregation side.

MRS. E. P. MILEY.

NEW YORK.

THE SUN for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy. Republican and Democratic, deprawed and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The Sun's light is for mankind and womankind of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

The Sun of 1868 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfinous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a freah, succinct, unconventional way, all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experimens was the success of The Sun. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important newspaper established in this country in the dozen years past has been modelled after The Sun. Every important journal already existing has been medified and bettered by the force of The Sun's example.

The Sun's example.

The Sun's example.

The Sun of 1883 will be the same outspoken, trath-telling and interesting newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with The Sun. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or Sokhira.

lars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or Bokhira.
In politics we have decided epinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of The Sun's politivity Course.
This warker Sunsgathers into 't pages the best matter of the seven daily ties. An avricultural Department of unequidament's full market reports, and a liberal propertion of literary, edentific and domestic intelligance complete the Warker Sun, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

"The processes thought out by the emocracy to obtain political power in the last two decades has always met its cheek by the vigilance of Republi-cans, who have watched the disloyal and subterfuge of principles apparently underlying the great motive for National and State support."

The "far-seeing, and editor" then without much tergiversation:

". for a mindustion into the province of political power-patent in securing the loaves and fishes—the bone and sinew of Democratic strength and joy." 9 33 CA 55.

"Power-patent" is good—reversible, and self-adjusting. It only needs to be "reinducted into a province" ochas remarked. The torrent rushes onward at this pace:

"The vast intelligence of a con scious people pose a continuance of political power at the hands of the friends of loyal government, and not

This sentence has the force and effect of a surgical operation on the crowned heads of Europe, and shows what the "vast intelligence" of an "unconscious people" might be guilty of if allowed to stay out nights.

Speaking of the enemies further, the fearless writer remarks, "Whose crowning successes appear in bold de-nials of the great and salutary results of our form of government through our late civil war, and the abolition at least of the many pernicious doctrines which a sectional people tainted trines which a sectional people tainted who, as alleged by the defense, had with a previous disloyalty, choose to died insane, but who really died from exhibit and enforce—even at the point of a bayonet."

This seems to settle the Democratic cat - hop entirely, so far as we can see. Such brave words have been needed for a long time, and we are glad they have been said. If war grows out of the declaration we shall help to "exhibit and enforce" the idea. After this bracing editorial air we feel like rescuing Ireland or abrogsting some treaty.

Let us all raily round the "power patent," and "reinduct" it with our " processes."

It is undoubtedly an outrageous imposition upon the enterprising people of Surprise to be thus treated upon false representation. We trust that this matter may be rectified at an early day. The people of Goose Lake and other sections are also interested, and should lend a hand in the work of restoring this line without delay. ## TO-DAY'S NEWS

cide Les This THE NOISY ASSASSIN

He Gives His Actorroph to All Com ers—The Thundering Cox is Still Calm—Proceedings at the Trial To-

In the Guiteau trial vesterday the prosecution introduced evidence to rebut the theory of insanity. The prisoner made the usual noisy and uneemly interruptions, at one time telling Scoville: "There's no use in talking, you must abandon your theory. My father was a smart man, and every body knows it."

At one time Guiteau was requested by some spectator behind him for his autograph. He wrote it with a dash and said: "A great many people want my autograph and I give it. There is no vanity or egotism in my action." To-day's Proceedings.

When Court opened this morning Guiteau shouted, "There is a crank in Chicago says I talked with him about the case. I don't know the man. It is false."

Col. Corkhill called as first witness to-day, Mrs. Julia M. Wilson, Leadville. She knew L. W. Guiteau. Wit ness gave a most affecting account of the life of her mother, Mrs. Maynard neumonia.
The deposition of Mr. Turner was received, in which he said, "I have heard her husband say she died in-sane," and witness was questioned in regard to it. Scoville objected to her reply, "I never heard of it," and a lively discussion ensued between Sco-ville and Judge Porter.

Guitesu became enraged at Judge Porter and shouted, "Now hold your thunder till you get to the jury, Judge. You are doing this sort of thing too much.'

Judge Porter, without noticing the outbreak, continued in a most impressive manner to argue this point, when Guiteau broke in again. "I'm not a Guiteau broke in again. "I'm not a criminal, and I won't be till convicted. I won't have that word. You just Nevada, gave a banquet last night to hold your eloquence till you get at a number of friends, including Sena-

the jury."
Scoville expostulated with him, still Witness never thought prisoner's father, L. W. Guiteau, to be insane. Witnesses evidence in chief remained unshaken, and her testimony produced a marked sensation. A REMARKABLE SCENE.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Wilson's testimony John W. Guiteau arose from his seat next to the prisoner and asked the Court to rule out the question and answer relative to witness father having died of softening of the brain. "I cannot see, your Honor,' continued Guiteau, "the occasion for dragging in people who merely have a blood connection with the prisoner." Judge Cox—I think the matter irrevelant. Scoville here arose trembling with excitement, and protested against mixing John W. Guiteau in this case. "He is opposed to showing insanity in the family," said Scoville, and his voice was drowned here by the pris-oner, who atruck his hand violently on the table and shouted: "So do I. He had better get back

Boston. He has got no business here; just because he happens to be of the same name he thinks he will get a little potoriety out of this case. I haven't known anything about the man for years; that's all there is about him, and I want him to get right out of this case.

John W. Guitesu arose and said:
"Your Honor, I greatly desire to make a personal explanation. My father is dead—"

dead..."
Guiteau broke in, interrupting him with, "On shut up and sit down. You have been vindicated."
Davidge objected to any more side scenes. Prisoner had continually been allowed to interfers with the proceedings, and at his rate the trial would soon become a face.

The History of a Week.

Subscribers to the weekly edition of the GAZETTE will certainly admit that we hand them a very interesting number to-day. The trial of the assassin Guiteau, together with the extraordithe GAZETTE's telegraphic report. Besides this central feature, all news of importance from the Eastern States and Europe will be found in the WEEKLY GAZETTE, together with plentiful editorial comment from the Eastern and Western press. The usual large amount of miscellany is presented, and in addition thereto an unusual number of county matters are discussed. The famous short-hand reporter's bill, and its fate as outlined by the GAZETTE, together with matters relating to the Assessor's office, are described in the WEKKLY. Miscellaneous items of interest to farmers and stock men, complete what is certainly a valuable number of the paper. It is a complete history of personal, political and business events at home and abroad during the past week.

Interesting Facts About the It is impossible to review a large paper, but so much interest is taken in the history of our own county and slightly. Everyone who has seen it is convinced that the publishers have tried to give full value for the money received. This may be said to be especially true of those with portraits. Perhaps the greatest mistake made was that the editor in starting out used up all his taffy on the first names and had to work it over for all the others. This made it very sticky, and in that condition it cannot be applied artistically. It gives it what taffy artists technically call a "smeary" look. There are a great many complaints made because the picture of Hon. Thomas K. Hymers does not appear, but the publishers are not to blame. They tried hard to get his picture, but this great and good man was so modest that he ran away and hid his blushing face in a bale of hay.

SOMETHING THE PROPLE OUGHT TO KNOW.

Speaking of Senator Fair the book says he made his trip around the world in triumph, and on his return his countrymen welcomed him with New holiday goods at F. Levy & an invitation to stand for the office of United States Senator. They turned to him because he had been so faithful to his trusts as a private citizen. His colleague was a miner, and had proven the ablest of Senators, so "try another," was the cry, and James G.

Fair was triumphantly elected. Mr. Mackay, it says was educated in Dublin, where they speak the purest English in the world, and that is why he has no brogue.

The editor made a great and valua ble discovery which had not been revealed even to the gentleman himself. That is that State Controller Hallock was some kin to General H. W. Hal leck. The picture of State Treasurer of forty-eight hours. Crockett explains several things the public never could understand before. It says General Murphy, like Garfield and Lincoln, has wrested fortune out of poverty and achieved success by good sense and energy. How pleased Mrs. Garfield and Mrs. Lincoln will be.

· A BRILLIANT MILITARY MAN. Colonel Ellis was raised by his aunt Keas and drifted into the Confederate army. The principal event in his military career seems to have been that he was detailed to exhume the body of the Colonel of his regiment and take it home. WEATHER WISE.

Simple Bules for Foretelling

A. J. Devoe, of Hackensack says: Some time ago a prominent gentleman of Chicago sent me this question: How can a person foretell changes in the weather without the aid of the telegraph or scientific instruments ? I will give a few rules:

First-When you see a bank of thin, hazy clouds along the northwest, and it is clear along the rest of the heavens, then the wind will be from the southeast on the morrow, the temperature will rise, and it will rain inside

Second-When there is a dark ring around the sun a storm is forming to the south of you; and on the morrow the wind will be from the northeast

Third-When the sky looks unusually black, and the stars shine very bright, a storm will advance suddenly from the southeast, beginning with snow, followed with rain.

If a person living in any section of our country can cite an instance when these rules did not operate as I have stated, I shall be pleased to hear from

The above item is referred respectfully to Professor Legate, in whom the writer has an abundant faith. He will probably make this New Jersey youth wish he had never ventured into print. Legate sees no reason to change his mind. To-day he remarked to a Ga-ZETTE reporter: "Clear and cold until further orders."

Professor Legate is pleased at the progress of his December thaw, and it ms to have been quite successful. He now sees unmistakable indication ice-bound north. Ranchers should unstand that no weather is genuine without Legate's signature.

Sherman and Ellis, itinerant preachers, calling themselves the Holiness Vanguard, hired a hall in Quincy, Ill., and soon had a revival under full headway. While they made numerous converts, they also offended the clergy of the city by violently abusing them, and their meetings became disorderly with turbulent divisions of sentiment. The two revivalists were at length shown to be unprincipled adventurers, bent only on making profitable, collections, and, on being arrested as vagrants, they promised to leave town immediately if released.

"Will you hold my baby while I look out for my bagging!" asked a woman of a railway employe in a Chicago depot, the other day. "No," and the man, "but'I will hold your baggene while you look for your baby." He held a baby once and she never came back for it, and that was what made him so careful.—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

CREAT SOUTH AMERICAN PANACEA.

UNCLE BEN JO'S

UNCLE BEN JO was born in Boston in 1800. Being a botaulst, he effected many wonderfu cures with roots and herbs. In 1844 he went to South America to study botany, and while there accidentally made his great discovery. The natives of this country were quite familiar with it, and had always supposed it to be a poisonous herb, which they used for the sole purpose of keeping snakes away from their tents or houses. This they did by haying it in a circle about the same at a proper distance off. This herb, Uncle Jo, as well as the natives, considered a very obnoxious and poisonous one, and when green and fresh it threw off a very distasteful and repulsive odor. The herb grows about two feet high, and about eight inches of the top part of its stalk is leafless, and this part lopes over and hangs downward perpendicularly, and from its curved neck to its end it increases in size. Hence Uncle Jo named it the Bell Tongue Plant. In South America, this herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the natives there call its herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country and the native the country and the native there are the
